

Dr. DOUGLAS MACDONALD

---

Senior Lecturer School of the Environment, University of Toronto

Dr. Douglas Macdonald, is a Senior Lecturer at the School of the Environment, University of Toronto.

Dr. Macdonald is currently doing research in three areas:

- (1) Canadian federal-provincial national climate change and energy policy making;
- (2) distributive effects of climate policy and associated political resistance;
- (3) theoretical foundations of interdisciplinary environmental studies.

Dr. Macdonald is the author of Business and Environmental Politics in Canada (Broadview Press, 2007), lead author Allocating Canadian Greenhouse Gas Emission Reductions Amongst Canadian Sources and Provinces: Learning from the EU, Australia and Germany (2013), and author or co-author of other academic and professional works.